TCEQ RULES

This brochure provides the basic information you need to find the statutes, codes, and rules pertaining to Texas environmental quality.

TEXAS COMMISSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY

GI-032 (Rev. 3/15)

Code vs. Rule

Laws enacted by the Texas Legislature appear in the form of statutes, some of which have been grouped into codes, such as the Texas Water Code. These statutes or codes are legal requirements that the Legislature has determined must be observed.

In these statutes or codes, the Legislature often directs state agencies to develop the specifics or details of the requirements, with public input. These more specific requirements are adopted by state agencies and are called rules.

Statutes and rules both have the force of law. However, if there is a conflict in meaning, a statute or code always takes precedence over a rule adopted to carry out that statute or code.

The Texas Register publishes rules for all state agencies (including emergency, proposed, withdrawn, and adopted rules), in numerical order. It is the official source for the Texas Administrative Code (TAC), which is a compilation of the current rules that have been adopted by all state agencies.

The TAC is organized into numbered categories called titles, which are then subdivided by chapters. The title pertaining to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality is Title 30. A list of all the TCEQ rules, or chapters, in Title 30 appears right.

Sources

TCEQ rules, as well as statutes and codes, are available in a variety of formats, from a number of sources, both public and private. Depending on the source and the format, some of this material is free of charge, and some must be purchased. Prices are subject to change, so the prices given in this brochure should be used as guidelines only. In this regard, and when comparing products, please contact each company or agency directly for current, detailed information.

Texas Administrative Code

Many chapters of Title 30 of the Texas Administrative Code (30 TAC) undergo frequent revision, due to the scope and complexity of federal and state mandates and other rulemaking initiatives. Consequently, a printed copy of a TCEQ rule may have a very short "shelf life." For this reason, we strongly encourage you to consider obtaining the rules electronically.

The most common electronic formats you'll find are PDF (Portable Document Format) and HTML (Hypertext Markup Language). Many public libraries provide Internet access.

Internet Access

The TCEQ. TCEQ rules (unofficial version of 30 TAC) are available in PDF at <www.tceq.texas.gov/rules>. For downloading instructions, click on the "Site Help" option near the bottom of the page (and of all TCEQ Web pages).

You can also receive free updates by e-mail every time a proposal, adoption, or public hearing notice is uploaded on the rules Web pages. To subscribe, go to the TCEQ's home page at <www.tceq.texas.gov> and click on "Get e-mail or text updates on your choice of topics."

The Secretary of State. The entire official Texas Administrative Code is available for free online viewing at the website of the Secretary of State, at <www.sos.texas.gov> (go to the "State Rules and Open Meetings" button at the top of the page, and then click on "Texas Administrative Code"). For assistance, please call the Secretary of State, Texas Register Section at 512-463-5561.

Legal Publisher. The Texas Administrative Code is also available online for a fee from the legal publisher Westlaw (1-800-328-4880). Please contact them for current subscriber pricing.

Printed and CD Copies

The TCEQ. Both printed and CD copies of TCEQ rules are available through TCEQ Publications. The initial copy is free and the customer is allowed to reproduce as many additional copies as needed. Should the TCEQ be requested to reproduce additional copies, a fee will be charged in accordance with Office of the Attorney General guidelines, in 1 TAC Chapter 70.
