Monitoring

The Mobile Ambient Air Monitoring Laboratory (MAAML) was deployed once in Pleasantville during January 2014. Pollutant levels detected are compared to the EPA's National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS). These standards are set for pollutants considered harmful to public health and the environment. No readings exceeded these standards. Environmental Investigators were also in Pleasantville with handheld monitors once in January 2014. Readings were zero during the investigation. Ozone information for 2013 have been updated below.

Pleasantville Area Mobile Ambient Air Monitoring Laboratory (MAAML) deployments and Continuous Ambient Air Monitoring Stations

- The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets the National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS).
- In the Houston region, during the 2011-2013 period, 15 of 20 Ozone active monitoring locations were in non compliance with the eight-hour Ozone NAAQS of 0.075 parts per million (ppm).
- In the surrounding area of the Pleasantville Area super neighborhood, three Ozone monitoring locations were in non compliance: Houston East, Houston Texas Avenue, and Clinton.
